The Senior Campus

Your House

The House system is a structure that develops relational learning at Christian Brothers College and is focused on student wellbeing. Avila, Callan, Nagle, Sion, Treacy and Waterford Houses are named after significant people and places that are connected with the story of Edmund Rice. Each House has a crest, colour, motto and charity. They have House events, formal and informal functions and are involved in intra and inter-house competitions. Healthy rivalry fuelled by loyalty to House colleagues builds traditions and rituals which support the four College values: Faith, Excellence, Community and Compassion.

Building on an already strong Pastoral Care program, the House system enables students and Pastoral Care teachers to establish a relationship of trust, support and friendship. Students remain with this same House for the duration of their time at Christian Brothers College, ensuring a sense of belonging. A student's Pastoral Care teacher will be the first and central link to many College activities, events and communications.

The Pastoral Care teacher provides an environment that nurtures each student to grow into their full potential respecting individuality while at the same time providing a sense of belonging. There are three vertically grouped (Years 7–9) Pastoral Care groups per House in the Middle Years and three vertically grouped (Years 10–12) Pastoral Care groups per House in the Senior Years.

Each individual's strengths will be valued and used to create bonds across peers of similar ages. The ability to establish cross age support provides opportunities for students to develop leadership skills and put College policy into action e.g., Anti-bullying, Restorative Justice and Personal Responsibility Policies reinforce a collegiate approach to mutual trust and support between staff, parents and students by forging lasting and authentic professional relationships. The House system continues to spread the responsibility of building community.

Mobile Phones

Mobile phones and other electronic devices may be brought to school but remain at all times the responsibility of the student.

At the Senior Campus, mobile phones must not be disruptive to learning and must be out of sight throughout the entire school day. If a student has permission to leave the classroom for any reason, they must leave their phone on the teacher's desk.

Students are permitted to use such features as Apple Pay for purchasing at the Canteen.

Year 12s may use their mobile phones in the Year 12 Study for basic functions such as timetable, calendar, messaging, and email for the organisation of their day, and extra-curricular commitments.

Due to our policies, the camera feature on mobiles is not permitted to be used at any time unless under teacher direction for pre-approved educational purposes. Students are reminded that use of mobile phones as a form of cyberbullying is in breach of our Harassment Policy.

Subject Selections

Students in Year 7 are undertake all curriculum areas including The Arts, Design and Technology and will study one semester of Italian and one semester of Chinese. (The study of both languages allows for an informed decision in Year 8)

Camps

The Year 7, 8 and 9 camps will combine the Religious Education program traditionally presented as 'Retreat' and the 'Rites of Passage' program designed to challenge, strengthen, and develop not only the individual's inner spiritual beliefs but begin their journey from 'boy to man'. The students will complete activities that will develop team skills, challenge their own strength and courage to allow for discussion on 'what it looks like to become a man'.

Year 8: Braving the Call

Year 9 Rite Journey Camp

Becoming Brothers Program

The Rite Journey was created to support in navigating a child's transition into adulthood. The program aims to raise young people's consciousness about transitioning from child to adult and involves important conversations about what matters. Most traditional cultures invoke a carefully crafted process that elders guide to teach their young ones the intricacies of adulthood. Without this process, young people who yearn to be seen as adults develop their rites of passage, which aren't always in their best interest. The Rite Journey provides a means for students to engage in meaningful discussion about becoming responsible, resilient, resourceful, and respectful adults. Through class activities, challenges, mentoring, camp, and the importance of ritual, students are equipped with the skills to be confident young men with a sense of purpose.

Co-curricular Program

CBC places great emphasis on the role and importance of physical and other co-curricular activities in the education of its students. As well as the Physical Education program, CBC offers a wide range of competitive sports and activities.

Much value can be gained by involvement in co-curricular activities. Exercise, the learning of skills, friendship, trips away and the fun of competing are all positive benefits of the inter-school program. Also, it is important that senior students find a balance between study and recreation, the latter being crucial to success in the former. Over the years many of the best students have involved themselves fully in the sporting program.

It is an expectation that all students from Years 4-12 will partake in the College's co-curricular program.

Once a commitment to a sport or activity is made, it must be honoured through the whole season. Summer season being Terms 1 and 4, and winter being Terms 2 and 3. Team nominations require mutual respect for other schools who have nominated in good faith. Therefore opting in and out of a co-curricular activity within a season is not an option. Students who play a sport at club level which is offered by the College, are expected to play that sport for CBC. This may involve more than one sport.

For further information, refer to the CBC Co-curricular Policy at <https://www.cbc.sa.edu.au/policies>

Co-curricular information and schedules are provided via dedicated portals in SEQTA and students and parents are encouraged to check this regularly.
